Personal Injury

Simon has an excellent reputation as a tenacious advocate who is particularly adept in his handling of fact sensitive claims. Clients appreciate his engaging manner and realistic down to earth approach to litigation. His instructions emanate from private clients (accepting conditional fee agreements), insurers, unions and local authorities. He also accepts instructions on a direct professional access basis.

In terms of road traffic claims he is able to offer a wealth of experience in addressing serious injury, fraud and credit hire issues. His expertise in the field of pedestrian claims is considerable and he is widely recognised for his ability in Highways Act 1980 cases. The scope of his personal injury practice encompasses occupiers', employer's and product liability claims, Animals Act 1971 and work related stress cases. Indeed he has acted for claimants seeking damages for psychiatric injury resulting from a breach of the Human Rights Act 1998 (Article 8) and the Protection from Harassment Act 1997.

Simon is a member of the Personal Injury Bar Association.
